

Reading, Pa., May 23.—William A. Snyder, while fishing at Melchoir's dam, near Barto, stepped into a nest of Black snakes. Angered by the intrusion, the reptiles turned upon him from both sides. Incouraging a heavy fight, Snyder beat right and left until he drove them off, after ten minutes' fighting. He killed two of them, one being seven feet eight inches long, and the other six feet ten inches in length. Six others escaped.

During the fight one of the snakes leaped at him from an overhanging ledge of a tree.

BEAUTIFUL CHERRY VALE PARK

THE GEM OF NEWARK HOME SITES

A New and Startling Proposition.

Nothing Like it Ever Heard of Before in Newark. The Greatest Sale of Lots Ever Offered in Newark
—NOW GOING ON—

Over 90 Lots Sold in this Allotment since Saturday Noon

Only 60 Lots Left Which are worth and cannot be purchased for less than $400 to $500 elsewhere,

ARE TO BE SOLD AT
$130 to $175 each.
NONE LOWER.

A FEW CHOICE CORNERS AT
$180 to $200 each.
NONE HIGHER.

Read Our Proposition Only $5.00 down, then only $1 a week until paid for. No interest, no taxes until paid for. Payments stop in case of illness. Absolutely free deed in case of death. No matter how little has been paid, not a cent more is required if the purchaser dies; a Warranty Deed with good title given to the estate or family at once.

Where Is It?

Just one and one-half miles due west of the Court House. That beautiful high plateau lying between the Granville Street Car Line, Cherry Valley Road, and Church street extended, just east of the State Encampment Grounds, just outside the city limits and high taxes, and from which a grand view of the entire city and surrounding country can be had. The most beautiful, and at the same time the most Healthful, Sanitary and Clean place about the city. No Smoke, no Malaria, and still within Easy Walking Distance from the Wehrle Stove Works, The Newark Machine Company, The Jewett Car Co., The Fee Lumber Yards, The Newark Gearwood Co., and other factories employing over 3000 men. It is also accessible to all factories in the city. Only one street car fare to any part of Newark. Labor tickets morning and evening. The difference in taxes will pay your fare. Cellars 10 feet deep without a drop of water in them. Drive wells with the finest water may be put down any place at an expense, with pump and all complete at from $5 to $8.

How to Reach Cherry Vale Park.

Take the Granville car leaving the Suburban station on the even hour, get off at the Brick School House east of the State Encampment Grounds, and walk north a short distance to our allotment. You cannot miss it. We have purchased these beautiful grounds for cash. We have laid them out in large lots, mostly 50x150 feet to a 15 foot alley. We have graded the streets in good shape and have set 2 rows of Fine Nursery Box Elders and North Carolina Poplars on each side of each St., making of this land a Veritable Park.

The Title Has Been Conveyed to The Newark Trust Co., one of the most, if not the most, reliable and substantial banks in Licking County, and with which Newark's best and most substantial business men are identified. This Trust Company will collect all the money paid in on these lots, and make warranty deeds to each purchaser as soon as lot is paid for, thus insuring absolute safety to all concerned.

We Offer You an Investment That Cannot Fail.

Banks may fail. Personal property may be destroyed. Money may be burned or stolen. Other investments may depreciate in value or fail entirely, but an investment in Cherry Vale Park cannot fail or depreciate. You buy it for less than half its value. They will all be sold within a short time, this will double their value. The growth of the city and the immutable laws of nature compels a steady increase in value. As the city grows new territory must come in. Nothing else is so available or fine as this for an addition to the city

It is a great satisfaction to own your own home. It is a solace to old age.
No interest, no tax on these lots. You know just what you have to pay.
You get a warranty deed from The Trust Company and a certificate showing perfect title.
All payments to be made at The Newark Trust Company.

We do not ask you to buy these lots on faith. Come out at our expense and look the property over. Free Car Tickets on the allotment, if you come out, whether you buy or not.

Come at once while you can have your choice. Every lot is a great bargain and they will go quickly on these terms.

Agents on the Allotment every day including Sunday.

THE WRECK OF THE KORIENTZ AT CHEMULPO.

One of the bravest deeds of the Russo-Japanese conflict thus far recorded was the fight waged by the Russian cruiser Varang and the gunboat Koriety against a dozen Japanese ships at Chemulpo the first day of the war. The upper picture represents the enormous cloud formed when the Koriety blew up. Below is shown the wreck of the gunboat as it appeared after the explosion.

Japanese Patriotism.

An article in Scribner's Magazine from the pen of John Fox, Jr., contains the following:

"On every gateway is posted a red slab where a man has gone to the war, marked 'Gone to the front'—to be supplanted with a black one—'Bravery forever'—should he be brought home dead. And when he is brought home dead his body is received at the station by his kin with proud faces and no tears. The woman mother has come back to earth again, and it is the Japanese mother who makes Japan the high priestess of patriotism among the nations of the world."

SAYS HERRICK MUST EXPLAIN HIS ACTION TOWARD FARMERS

(Columbus Citizen.)

The current number of the Ohio Farmer, one of the most widely circulated farm papers of the country, contains an editorial vigorously attacking Governor Herrick for his recent action in vetoing appropriations of $75,000 for a live stock building at the Ohio State University and for agricultural purposes, notably and smaller amounts for the state experiment station, Dairy association and horticultural society.

According to the Ohio Farmer he vetoed 63 per cent of the entire appropriations for higher agricultural research and education, 5 per cent for higher negro education and none out of $472,000 for higher education outside of agriculture. The farmers pay about 45 per cent of the general state, county and local taxes. They contribute about 40 per cent of the entire population.

"To us," says the editorial, "Governor Herrick seems to have overestimated his knowledge and ability in using the newly-conferred veto power. He held it as a club over the legislature and forced changes in the En-rock bill against the wills and sentiments of the members and the temperance sentiment of the people of the state. He exercised it after the legislature had adjourned, and, of course, could not pass it over the veto. He assumes that his knowledge of the wishes, wants and needs of the people of the state is greater and his judgment better than that of the members of the various legislative committees who studied the several bills and proposed appropriations with information on all sides and phases of them direct from the people before them at their various sittings. The governor has seemed to fail to confine himself to the duties of the executive department and to assume to dictate to the legislature—both before and after its adjournment.

"To us it seems that his adverse action towards agriculture, pointed out above, demands some sort of explanation for him, the nature of which we cannot imagine. Unexplained, that action seems insulting and vindictive towards the most important industry and one of the most intelligent classes of men in the state."

Delegates is required to send his name to the Chairman of the Executive Committee by noon on Saturday, May 21, 1904, in order to have his name printed on the ticket.

Chairman Democratic Executive Committee.

EDWARD W. CRAYTON,
Secretary.

CHANCE FOR DEMOCRATS

Governor Pattison, of Pennsylvania, Believes They owe the Country's Conservative Sentiment.

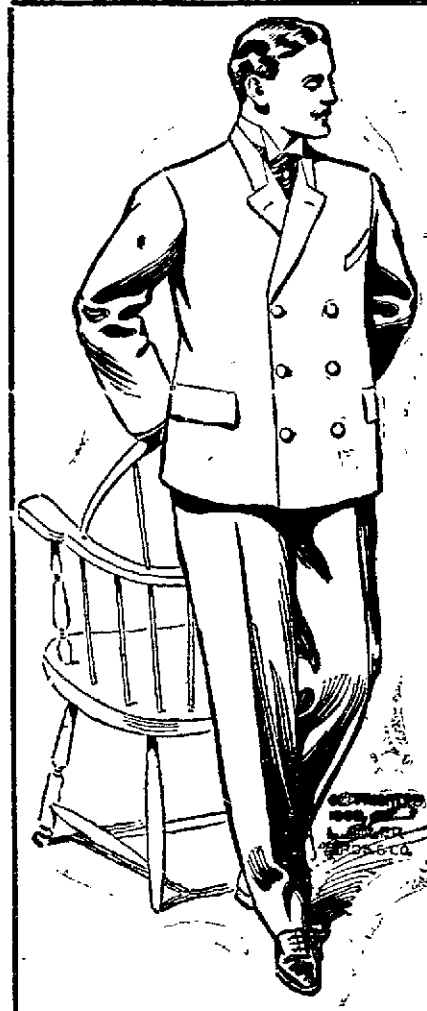

Washington, May 23.—In an interview, ex-Governor Robert E. Pattison of Pennsylvania, said on the political situation:

"I believe the conservative sentiment of the country today is with the Democratic party, and if the Democratic party can satisfy that sentiment by its action at the national convention, it will receive the approval of the people at the polls next November. The Democracy must adhere to the principles of the constitution as expounded by Thomas Jefferson, and stick close to the precepts of the Democratic founders of the government. 'The safety of the country and the party is secured by such a course. Concerning his own state an city, Mr. Pattison said:

"Greater New York contains 1,000,000 more people than Philadelphia, yet Philadelphia has 100,000 more registered voters than New York. New York requires personal registration, while Philadelphia has been denied this safeguard to the ballot box by the state legislature. All that is necessary in Philadelphia is for a list of the voters to be made up according to the reports of the assessors. The judges never have ordered the opening of a ballot box on an affidavit of fraud at the polls. In 1873 there was a congressional investigation as to the conduct of elections in Philadelphia, but such an investigation is more needed now than at any previous time in the city's history."

A Flag to Be Proud Of.

At a Fourth of July dinner in Shanghai a few years ago the English consul, in toasting the British flag said:

"Here's to the Union Jack—the flag of flags—the flag that has floated on every continent and on every sea of a thousand years—the flag on which the sun never sets."

It has such a strong sentiment that the Americans were a little overawed, until the American humorist, Eli Perkins, was called to toast the Stars and Stripes. Looking directly in the faces of the Englishmen, he said:

"Here is to the Stars and Stripes of the New Republic; when the setting sun lights up her stars in Alaska, the rising sun shines her on the rock-bound coast of Maine. It is the flag of liberty, never lowered to any foe, and the only flag that whips the flag on which the sun never sets."

A CARD

Many of our citizens have a wrong idea of the Musical Festival to be given in the Auditorium on Wednesday and Thursday evenings and Saturday afternoon of this week. It is not an amateur entertainment. The committee has made an honest effort to give Newark a May Festival of Music. They have spared neither time nor money. In the production of Chenev's "Egypta," the best genius from the best and most popular operas are used and the completed work presented by soloists and a chorus of over 400 voices. It is safe to say that the chorus is the largest ever trained in Newark and the solo parts are by professional musicians. The theme, the cast, the great festal chorus and the fact that this is to be Newark's largest musical May Festival ought to be appreciated by every citizen who loves music or has pride in the progress of his city.

Respectfully, the Committee,
FRANK S. BARTHOLOMEW,

NO OVERCROWDING AT ST. LOUIS

Ample Accommodations at Reasonable Rates.

The alarming and altogether erroneous reports which have been circulated from time to time regarding the probable overcrowding of visitors to the Exposition and the lack of accommodations may be entirely discarded, as the arrangements which have been made in the Cascade City are such as to provide good accommodations and entertainment for all who come.

Chief among the prominent hostilities which have opened their hospitable doors is The Inside Inn, situated actually within the grounds of the Exposition itself and erected under the supervision of the World's Fair Management. It is three stories in height, is 100 feet wide, 800 feet long and contains 2,257 rooms in addition to its parlors and waiting rooms and a dining room and restaurant, seating 2,500. The Inside Inn is under the management of Mr. E. M. Statler, the well known caterer of Buffalo, who maintains a high class and uniform cuisine and service for everyone of his guests.

The Inside Inn is run on both the European and American plans at rates ranging from $1.50 to $5.50 per day. European and from $3.00 to $7.00. American, including admission to both classes. The range of prices being solely controlled by the size and location of the rooms.

The advantages of a large, comfortable, and thoroughly equipped, home-like hotel right inside the grounds will at once be obvious to all who remember the long, wearisome journeys so often entailed, both at the World's Fair in Chicago and at Buffalo, by those who lived some distance away from the Exposition. No admission fee other than the first one is needed, visitors being within the precincts of the Exposition all the time. They thus save all loss of time, expenses of street cars, etc., and are able to devote the whole of their time to the pleasures and enjoyments of the Exposition.

Reservations may be made for any date and full details regarding the many advantages of The Inside Inn may be obtained by addressing a postal card to The Inside Inn, Administration Bldg., World's Fair Grounds, St. Louis.

United Spanish War Veterans.

For the information of all honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines of the late war with Spain and the Philippine insurrection, I have been requested to state that the new organization of United Spanish War Veterans is a consolidation under one name and charter of the three largest ex-soldiers societies, viz "The Spanish War Veterans," "The Service Men," and Spanish-American War Veterans for the purpose of perpetuating the patriotism shown by the boys of America in answering their country's call in 1898. The charter of Sam Williams Command will be exchanged for a new charter of the United States War Veterans, but the name will be retained and the transfer will be made without in any way interfering with the work already done by that Council. General Fred M. Fanning, late corps commander of Ohio of the S. W. V., has been appointed "Department" commander for Ohio of the new organization.

A circular just received from him announces a Department Meeting to be held at Wapakoneta, O., in August. Also all appointments on his staff are retained in the new organization. All camps are urged to have large representation in the ceremonies attending Decoration Day, inviting all ex-soldiers of the Spanish War to join with them in this celebration and to heartily co-operate with other patriotic bodies in this work.

If you are eligible and not a member, send your application to Sam Williams Council before May 29, and be one of the boys.

GRANVILLE

BACCALAUREATE SERMON IN HONOR OF HIGH SCHOOL

Graduates Preached by Dr. C. J. Baldwin, Pastor of Baptist Church, Before Large Congregation.

Granville, O., May 22.—There is a rare treat in store for the citizens of Granville and Newark. The Y. M. C. A. Lecture committee has arranged for a lecture next Saturday evening, May 28, on "Zero Absolute and Wireless Telegraphy" at the Granville Opera House, by Prof. J. E. Woodland of Mechanics Institute, Rochester, N. Y. Professor Woodland graduated from Denison in '01, and three years ago his lecture on "Liquid Air" attracted the largest audience ever seen in Granville. The lecture Saturday night will be instructive as well as interesting. Since Marconi started the world anew by telegraphing across the Atlantic without the aid of wires public interest in this newest of scientific achievements has become intense. Professor Woodland brings with him the latest type of apparatus for wireless telegraphy, and sets up before the audience a complete working Marconi station from which messages are sent and received from all parts of the house. Bells are rung, motors are started and stopped, cannons fired, mines exploded, electric lamps lighted and extinguished and other experiments that rival the magic of Hermann and Keller. The whole matter is made so plain that even a child may understand.

On Sunday evening at the Baptist church, Dr. C. J. Baldwin preached the baccalaureate sermon in honor of the fifteen young men and women who on June 2, will graduate from the Granville High school. Dr. Baldwin's text was taken from I Samuel 3: 8, formed the theme of a masterly discourse, directed especially to the interests of the young people who formed a prominent part of the congregation. Besides the graduating class who attended the service in a body, the younger members of the school and many friends by their presence, evinced their interest in the public school work, and in those who have so nearly finished their course of study under its instruction.

The funeral services of Ashbell Fairchild Simpson, D. U. '06, were held at the Baptist church on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Dr. Hunt and Dr. Baldwin officiating. Interment was made in the College cemetery on the hill.

ABSALOM

King David's Son and the Lessons Drawn From His Career at Taylor Hall.

"Lessons From the Career of the Young Man Absalom," was the subject of two very interesting and helpful addresses at the men's meeting in Taylor Hall, yesterday afternoon. Mr.

Charles Flory spoke on the three elements which enter into the life of every man, viz, Heredity, environment and will power, and showed how Absalom was influenced by each in the environment of his youth. But more than all, Absalom failed because he never even put forth a real effort to be a man—he lived a true Turpinese. In consequence his life proved a disastrous failure.

Prof. Childs spoke of Absalom as an example of moral degeneration. He followed the basest instincts of his nature until he became a moral degenerate. The Bible gives us the record of lives lost as they were. Some as example of what a man should be and do. Others as warnings of what we ought not to do. Absalom belongs to the latter class.

The meeting was presided over by Dr. I. N. Palmer, and the choir of the Second Presbyterian church led in the music and rendered a very beautiful anthem. The service as a whole, was very excellent and deserved a much larger attendance than it had.

AUTO ACCIDENT

W. D. Fulton's Machine Was Badly Wrecked and Miss Bertha Was Slightly Hurt

The new automobile of Attorney W. D. Fulton was badly damaged Sunday morning by colliding with a telephone pole at the corner of West Main street and the public square.

The steering apparatus had been slightly damaged on a previous trip and Sunday morning when Mr. Fulton attempted to turn the corner the machine suddenly turned and rushed into the heavy pole. The front part of the machine was badly smashed and Miss Bertha Fulton, who was in the machine at the time, was thrown to the pavement and was slightly injured.

RESORT RAIDED

By the Police Sunday Night and Offenders Appeared Before the Mayor Monday

The resort run by Wm Moore on Walnut street, was raided about 10:30 o'clock Sunday evening and the occupants and visitors were taken to the police station.

The raid was made by Captain Bell and Officers Swank, Koehorst, Hager, Burke, Scott and McClure. Those arrested are B. Zetemeier, James Smith, George Henry, F. F. Moore, Mary Woldard, Lizzie Stine Forest Crawford.

The first three plead guilty and were fined $1 and costs. The girls plead not guilty and after trial were fined $5 and costs. Moore demanded an attorney and his case was continued. His bond was fixed at $100.

It is stated that the occupants were drunk and were arousing the neighborhood with their hilarity.

In The Field of Sport : : :

Those who saw the game put up by Idlewild Saturday thought the limit of poor playing on the part of several of the players had been reached, but on Sunday it was if possible even worse.

Scout and Wasp, on the previous Sunday, were opposed to each other and for a time it was thought that another pitchers' battle would result.

Wesp was again invincible and Stone's work was equally gilded, and for eight innings the battle raged each side scoring a run. Stone was not in any way responsible for the run scored in the first inning. Abbott, the first man up should have been retired easily but Poole missed his effort and after he stole second he scored on Wilson's hit. Bateman and Bissell being easy victims. Had Abbott been retired as he should have been, the single would have been out before Wilson came to bat.

But the eighth was a nightmare to the rooters for the home team, when Coshooton scored three runs on one hit, and three errors. Abbott doubled in the inning. Bateman died to Taylor, and Abbott scored on Justice's rank fumble of Bissell's grounder on which Abbott could have easily been thrown out at the plate. Wilson fled to McAllister and a moment later Poole made a fearful error on Mattheson's hit, Bissell scoring. Flick was not to be outdone in rank playing and he contributed an error on Prince's grounder, which allowed Mattheson to score. It was the worst exhibition of baseball ever seen on the local grounds, and a shakeup should be made in the team unless immediate and radical improvement is made at third and short.

The home team made a rally in the ninth, but it was too late. Scott and McAllister each got a two-base hit in this inning. The score:

SATURDAY'S GAME.

Just when Idlewild wanted to make the best appearance she went to pieces and gave about the worst exhibition of ragged ball playing even seen in Newark. Zanesville, when the Newark boys most wanted to defeat carried off the game by the score of 13 to 1.

Zanesville seemed to be in a hitting mood Saturday, and the way they lined them over all particular portions of the fence, was amusing to the Zanesville rooters, but it caused no joy here.

"Lefty" Snyder, who was in the box for Idlewild, was not in good condition, and his delivery was slow, being received in a most astonishing way. Not a man did he strike out whatever he may have lacked as a pitcher he made up by fobbing a great many. With this chance he made not one error, and they were most hard chances. Justice and Poole started the ball rolling by making two errors each in the first part of the game. During the rest of the game the Clay City base runners kept the home plate warm. Eight two-base hits are credited to Zanesville.

The Zanesville aggregation is about the strongest and hardest hitting bunch that has yet visited Newark. There is not a weak man on the team and every man knows what to do at the right time.

The Newark boys were not at their best and will yet show that they are the equal or superiors of Zanesville, in every way. Their fielding was poor, and the batting was not of the kind that has characterized the games heretofore. Nor was Snyder at his best. The next time the two teams meet there will be a different story to tell.

The score was as follows:

Big Crowd Coming.

Local fans are planning a big rooting excursion to Newark on Decoration Day when the Pets go to that city for a game with that team. It is expected that two hundred rooters, equipped with rooters' streamers, will accompany the team and show the Newarkites a few stunts in the art of effective baseball rooting. A similar excursion last fall proved quite effective. The project is being worked up among the fans and it looks now that a larger number than that mentioned will compose the rooters band.—Zanesville Signal.

McNamar vs. Scheidler.

A ball nine, composed of the employees of the McNamar Machine works, challenged the Scheidler boys to a game of ball. The game was played on the Texas diamond on Sunday morning. A large crowd enjoyed the contest. The field was somewhat soft and caused a number of errors but the game was well played. The two nines lined up in the following order:

Scheidler nine—P. Weekly, m.; A. Hess, c.; C. Tyrer, 1b.; J. Cane, 2b.; J. Markham, ss.; W. Jennings, 3b.; F. Horn, rf.; H. Jennings, lf.; A. Hublauch, cf.

McNamar nine—C. Dunn, p.; C. Deardorff, c.; F. Pausch, 1st b.; F. Siegel, 2d b.; C. Glenn, ss.; C. Kahen, 3d b.; T. Hoffman, rf.; H. Kiser, cf.; W. Jeffries, lf.

The game was five innings and resulted in a score of 15 to 11 in favor of the Scheidler nine. The umpires were C. Roe and C. Moore. The game was a fast and exciting one, and during the game the boys played great ball. There is no better what the score would have been had the entire nine innings been played.

The "Salted" Mine

[Original.]

"What are you doing, John?" The question was asked in a mining camp in the far west. A man had dumped several bags of ore on the kitchen floor and was mixing them in one heap.

"Hist, Molly. Don't be asking too many questions."

"But I want to know."

"Well, then, I'm preparing to make Molly Drake a rich woman. There's a fellow come out from New York hunting for property with which to organize a big mining company. He's been looking at our town since our Goldville bill. I've told him I've struck the rich vein of the Sully Ann mine in the middle of our property."

"Well?"

"I'm preparing to make sure he's not disappointed."

"John Drake, do you mean to tell me you're going to 'salt' the property?"

"Salt it? Don't you know that this is a world in which the shrewd ones live on the fools? What does he want the property for? To make a balloon of it. To do this he must have something to show. If I don't give him rich ore he'll go to the next man, who will; and I'll be left in the lurch. He don't want to know too much. It would spoil his plans. There he comes now."

Leaving the kitchen he shut the door. The stranger came on. As he did so Molly Drake fixed her eyes upon him in wonder. The color left her cheek, and she bit her lip to restore her equanimity. As the man approached he, too, started, but the woman cast a meaning glance toward her husband and put her finger to her lips. When the newcomer and the woman met they were introduced by the husband as strangers.

"Molly, this is Mr. Sydney, a gentleman from New York looking for mining property."

Mr. Sydney and Mrs. Drake nodded to each other, and Drake, evidently fearing that the purchaser might get a look into the kitchen, soon took him away, but not before Sydney and Mrs. Drake had managed to make an appointment to meet that evening in the wood back of the cabin.

As soon as dark came John Drake harnessed a horse to a cart and, taking the salted ore, drove away. He had scarcely gone when his wife went back into the wood. Sydney was waiting.

"Molly!"

"George!"

It was the old story of a lovers' misunderstanding. George Sydney had gone off thinking that Molly Parker had dismissed him, Molly thinking that he would come back. After a time John Drake, who had the name of being a money maker and had accumulated some means, won and married her. Hearing of a gold strike on Wolf creek in the far west, he had taken his money and gone there to be on hand for a good investment.

Sydney began to speak of the cause of their estrangement.

"That's all past, George," interrupted the woman. "What are you doing here?"

"My father and certain friends of his have great confidence in the gold producing qualities of this place and have sent me to buy any property that looks well. When I fell in with John Drake I—"

"Yes, yes. What are you going to do with this property if you buy it?"

"Work it."

"Organize a company to boom the stock and sell out?"

"Molly!"

"Or get what there is in it for the purchasers?"

"If we buy a mine, I am to stay here and manage it."

She stood a moment thinking, then said, "Come with me."

Taking him to her cabin, she opened the kitchen door and with a candle held low showed him the dust left from the mixed ores.

"If you buy this property, that's the sample you will buy it on."

He looked at her in wonder. "Do you mean?" he began.

"That John has gone to salt the hole where he claims he has struck the Sully Ann vein."

For a few moments Sydney continued to look at her as if some great mistake was being made. Then he exclaimed bitterly:

"Oh, Molly, why did you send me away?"

"Go. I have nothing more to tell you; no further warning."

"Go? And leave you here with a man you can't respect. Go? I will only go if you go with me."

"Neither the law of the land nor of God permits that, George. Go."

When John Drake drove the team up to his cabin at midnight and put it away he went into the house and found his wife awaiting him.

"John," she said, "you'll find the house in order and provisions for the rest of the week. I'm going back to my father."

The man started as if he had been struck.

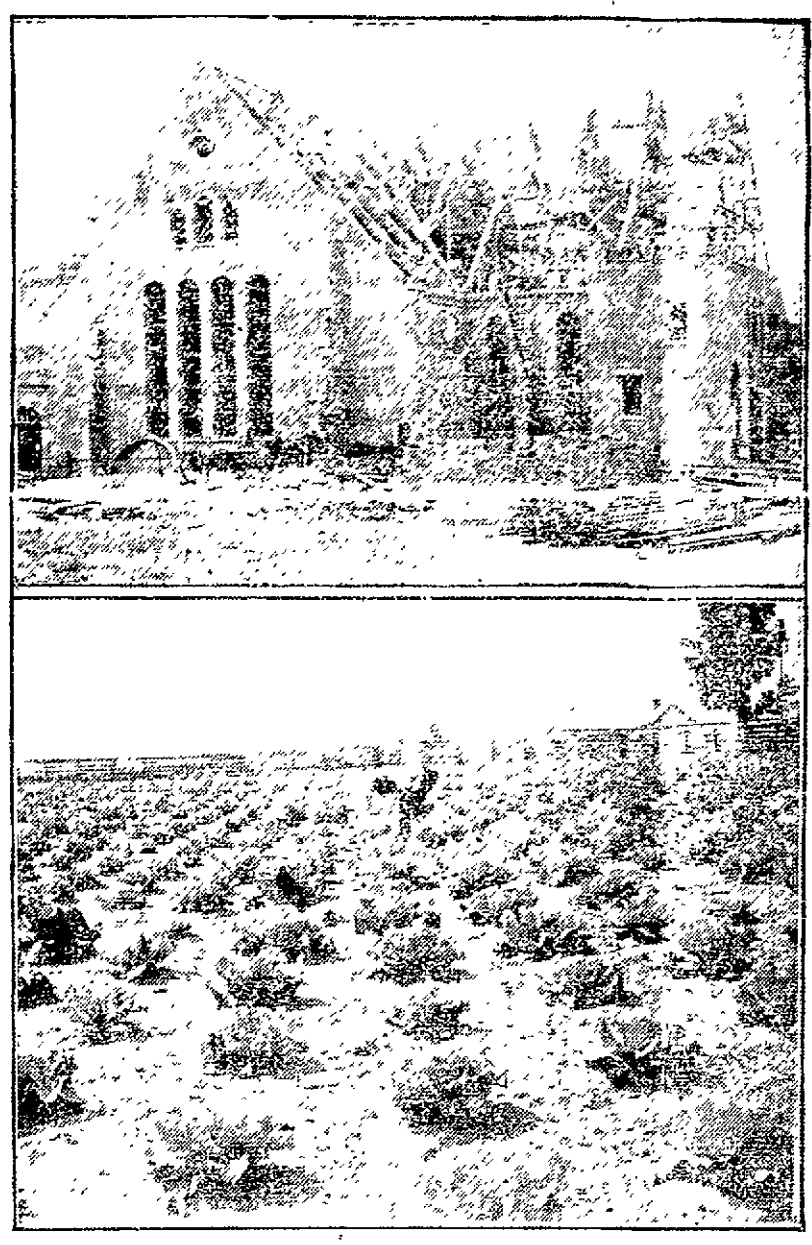

"For heaven's sake, Molly, what do you mean?"

"I mean that I will not live with a dishonest man."

Something in the resolute tone of her voice told him that she was not to be dissuaded. He saw her pass away in the darkness and, going into the house, fell on his face. He had considered "salting" ore not as a criminal offense, but a shrewd operation.

Sydney made every effort to induce Mrs. Drake to take some action with a view to their possible union, but she steadily refused. Ten years later her husband died, and she married the man she should have married in the first place.

CHARLOTTE ATWOOD.

SCENES AT BOOKER T. WASHINGTON'S TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE.

The whole world knows of the work Booker T. Washington is doing for the negro at Tuskegee institute, Tuskegee, Ala. Washington believes that good negro farmers, carpenters, masons and other industrial workers are what this country needs and that manual training will do more to solve the negro problem than anything else. Many of his numerous students are experts in the various vocations they have chosen. The upper picture shows a number of Tuskegee students building a church on the grounds of the institute. The lower picture, taken at the Tuskegee experiment station, demonstrates that the students have learned how to raise almost endless rows of very fine cabbages.

FRAUD ORDERS.

The Way the Postoffice Deals With Attempts to Swindle.

When a business concern in the United States begins suddenly to receive a large number of letters daily it may be sure that, although no ripple has disturbed the surface, a quiet investigation is going on, and if there is any thing dishonest about the business a notice will soon appear from the postmaster to the effect that the department at Washington has ordered the retention of all letters addressed to that man or company.

The dishonesty which is held to justify the issuing of a fraud order may not be a mere barefaced attempt to steal—an effort to get something for nothing. The charging of an excessive profit or misleading advertising has culled forth such an order. A recent case in point is that of a company which advertised to furnish seed for an agricultural product and to buy the product at market prices. The order against the company was issued because it was learned that it sold in small quantities for a total of $299 seed which it bought in bulk for $3 and because it represented the product as easy to raise, when, in fact, it is difficult.

This fearless attitude and action of the government are of the greatest possible benefit to the country at large in two ways. It checks—indeed, it stops absolutely—one kind of fraud, and it protects innocent persons from loss through that fraud. The thing on which stress should be laid is the availability of this strong arm of protection.

There is always a large number of fraudulent schemes afloat, dependent upon the publicity which they get through advertising. When one's attention is attracted by such an advertisement he has only to call the attention of his postmaster to it and to ask him to notify the department at Washington. To do this in every suspicious case is a duty which every honest man owes to his neighbor as well as to himself.—Youth's Companion.

A Dying Race.

It is predicted that within a few generations the race of native Hawaiians will become extinct.

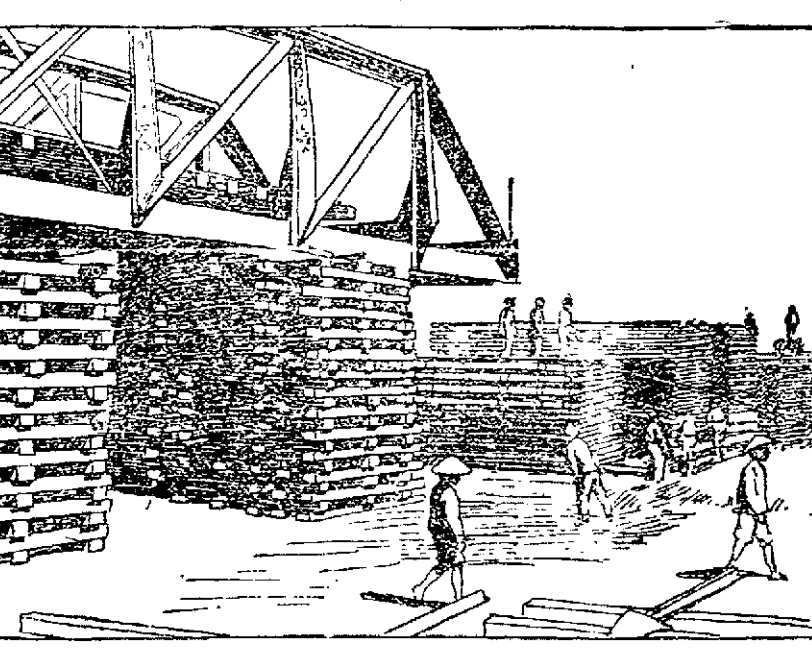

The main causes, as set forth by Lucien C. Warner in the Outlook, are intermarriage and the poor state of health of the pure bloods. Their total number has been reduced from 70,000 in 1852 to less than 30,000 in 1900.

The Cork Crop.

The production of cork in Spain is estimated at 28,170,736 pounds, that of Portugal at 32,515,104 pounds; Algeria and other cork producing countries together about 20,221,940 pounds, making the world's total annual cork production $1,287,700 pounds. The export of raw cork from Spain in 1902 amounted to 9,061,966 pounds and for the first eleven months of 1903 to 8,722,002 pounds. The export of manufactured corks from Spain in 1902 amounted to 4,390,658 pounds, valued at $1,445,700.

A Lamp of Marine Microbes.

A curious lamp has been constructed by a professor. A glass globe placed on a metal stand is nearly filled with a liquid composed of luminous marine microbes. There are two tubes running from the globe, and through these a supply of air is sent to the interior when the light grows dull, the effect apparently being to revivify the microbes. The light from this lamp will last for several weeks without renewal of the illuminating medium.—Liverpool Post.

RAPID BRIDGE CONSTRUCTION IN MANCHURIA.

Under Suspicion

[Original.]

"Mother," said Bessie Childers as she threw off her wraps excitedly, "something's wrong at the store."

"What is it, child?"

"Today at noon I went to the cloakroom to get my handkerchief, which I had left by mistake, and found the large inside pocket of my cloak filled with lace."

"Good gracious! What did you do?"

"I didn't do anything. I knew that I was in a dangerous position and wanted to take the right course. I went back to my counter to think it over and continued during the afternoon to take the things to the office and state the case. But when I went back to the cloakroom the laces were gone."

"Taken out by some one who put them there?"

"I don't know. They may have been taken by one of the store detectives."

"What are you going to do about it?"

"Nothing. If they were taken away by the thief there's no need to say anything; if by a detective, he will either accuse me at once or watch me."

Elizabeth Childers was the daughter of Archibald Childers, who had lived rich and died poor. Her mother taught music, and Bessie sold fancy articles in the dry goods store of Banning & Co. The next day Bertram Banning, son of the head of the firm, walked past her counter, looking at her with an expression that might mean anything, but surely meant something. Bessie naturally ascribed it to the fact that she was a suspected thief. That night she renewed her plaint to her mother, and the two were in an agony of distress, expecting that an arrest would soon follow.

But the arrest did not follow, and the mother and daughter agreed that the firm was waiting further evidence of her guilt. Mr. Bertram Banning, whenever he passed Bessie's counter gave her the same interested glance. She made every effort to appear composed, and she succeeded admirably.

Then one day Mr. Banning stopped at her counter and had a little chat with her. She had no doubt that he was intending to draw from her some evidence to criminate her, but he confined himself to very ordinary topics that could not possibly bear on the subject of stolen goods. A few days later he spoke to her again, this time intimating that he had made the discovery that she was the daughter of the once wealthy banker, Archibald Childers.

That he had been making inquiries about her was apparent, though his detectives had doubtless gathered the information. The poor girl was in dreadful suspense. She wished that it might end even if by her arrest. Bertram Banning was evidently managing the case, and she wondered that so affable a young man with so much wealth at his command or in prospect did not leave such unpleasant matters to some one else.

One day Bessie was notified that she was promoted to a higher position at a very largely increased salary. The first flash of pleasure in this advance was dashed by the suspicion that it was intended to get her where she could be the more easily entrapped. She talked the matter over with her mother, and they agreed that possibly the thief of the laces was at the bottom of it all. At any rate, influences were at work to get positive evidence. To find stolen goods on her clothing might not be sufficient. She must be caught in the act. As she did not intend to steal anything she had no fear of being caught, but she did fear being made to stand in the place of a thief. Her suspicions were confirmed when she found that she was placed in charge of a stock of goods kept in a room by themselves and where she would be a great deal of the time alone. That there was a peep-hole through which she would be watched she did not doubt.

The day of her entry on her new duties Bertram Banning came in and congratulated her on her advance, especially as she would not have to sell the goods, only to be responsible for them. She received him in her usual constrained manner, and the more interested he appeared in her welfare the more confirmed she became that he was trying to decoy her off her guard.

Weeks went by, and as there was no denouncement of the plot Bessie concluded that some one had been fooled.

One day Bertram Banning came into her room with an expression on his face that convinced her the bomb was about to explode. He did not at once explode it. He beat about the bush with embarrassment. Finally, bracing himself for an effort, he said:

"Miss Childers, I have something."

"Oh, don't!" cried Bessie, covering her face with her hands.

"You know, then. You have looked beyond?"

"Oh, Mr. Banning, that you should!" She could not go on.

"And why not? Is there anything dishonorable in—"

"No, not dishonorable, but if you only knew how unjust!"

"Just?"

"Yes, I am absolutely innocent."

"Is it innocent to steal?"

"I did not."

"Miss Childers, you are a thief of the worst kind. True, you have stolen an article of little value, only my poor heart."

Bessie Childers looked at him as one awakened from a dream.

"Your heart?"

"Yes, Wm did you suppose?"

"I thought you meant the laces."

"Then it came out that the real thief had been caught long ago, but it was the incident that first turned Bertram Banning's attention to Bessie Childers."

CRUSHES OUT THE LIFE

The most loathsome and repulsive of all living things is the serpent, and the vilest and most degrading of all human diseases is Contagious Blood Poison. The serpent sinks its fangs into the flesh and almost instantly the poison passes through the entire body. Contagious Blood Poison, beginning with a little ulcer, soon contaminates every drop of blood and spreads throughout the whole system. Painful swellings appear in the groins, a red rash and copper colored spots break out on the body, the mouth and throat become ulcerated, and the hair and eye brows fall out; but these symptoms are mild compared to the wretchedness and suffering that come in the latter stages of the disease when it attacks the bones and more vital parts of the body. It is then that Contagious Blood Poison is seen in all its hideousness. The deep eating abscesses and sickening ulcers and tumors show the whole system is corrupted and poisoned, and unless relief comes soon this serpent disease tightens its coils and crushes out the life. The only antidote for the awful virus is S. S. S. It is nature's remedy, composed entirely of vegetable ingredients. S. S. S. destroys every vestige of the poison, purifies the blood and removes all danger of transmitting the awful taint to others. Nothing else will do this. Strong mineral remedies, like mercury and potash, dry up the sores and drive in the disease, but do not cure permanently. Send for our home treatment book and write us if in need of medical advice or special information. This will cost you nothing.

Are Features of the Great Barnum & Bailey Circus, Which Shows in Newark Thursday.

In a traveling kindergarten for baby elephants eight little pachyderms are receiving their education, a training that fits them for the circus.

From 8 o'clock in the morning until noon and from 2 o'clock until 5 they are kept at their lessons through the winter months. They have a system of rewards and punishments and no child was more than a baby elephant under discipline for being bad. The school lasts all the year round, but it is moved with the circus, and the hours are changed to suit their liberty from the ring. Seven of the babies are from Singapore and the eighth and youngest is native born. They are part of the herd with Barnum & Bailey's circus.

The seven little fellows from the East Indies were brought to the United States a little more than a year ago and joined the kindergarten in Bridgeport, Conn., where the circus has its winter quarters. Coco, the American, was too young then to take lessons in tricks, for it is only a little more than two years old, but since that time it has been enrolled and now shows signs of overtaking the others in its studies.

The head teacher of the school is William Emory. His assistant is Thomas Mooney. There is a whole staff of tutors and occasionally an older elephant to take the part of a monitor. The pupils, besides Coco, are Trilby, Topsy, Prince, Keetah, Bimbad, Annie and Curzon, the last named after the Viceroy of India.

In the elephant kindergarten one of the babies is taught alone until it has learned a trick. The first trick usually is to lie down at command. The head teacher stands by the little fellow and says "Down!" The baby doesn't know what that means, so the tutors pull its legs from under it and throw it to the floor. All the time the head teacher has been repeating the word of command. After a time, perhaps before the end of the first day, the baby begins to understand what is wanted and it lies down alone. Then it is patted and a loaf of bread is given to it.

The day after the baby has learned the meaning of the word "down" the rest of the class is taken into the school room. The new pupils are ranged along the wall with their heads toward the center of the room. The baby that has been taught how to lie down is put through the performance again and again, while the others look on. Then one of the new pupils is taken out to the center and the word of command is given to it. The other means nothing to the baby elephant, so the little fellow is put through the same course of instruction that taught the first pupil.

But while it has been standing with the others watching the actions of the one in the center of the room some kind of an idea has taken root in its brain and there is enough imitative tendency in its nature to make it learn much more readily than if it never had seen the lesson on given to the other. So by and by the whole class is schooled until all know enough to lie down when the order is given.

At the end of each morning session, again at the close of the afternoon's work and before they go to bed at night the good little elephants are treated to "lagnappe." In this case a loaf of bread which is one of the great delicacies for elephants. Lagnappe is a Southern word used by animal trainers in the circus and means a sweetmeat or other delicacy given to a child as a reward for something it has done right. Only the good little elephants get "lagnappe." The bad ones eat hay.

Sometimes Coco is unruly or mischievous. If it is in the morning, there is no lagnappe for it at noon. Then Coco winks and whines and tempests and drives the head teacher of the tit-bit, but it is no use. Discipline is strict. All Coco gets is advice. But Coco soon learns why there is no loaf or bread, and in the afternoon session there is no better behaved baby than this same Coco. If the baby is bad in the afternoon there is no lagnappe when school is dismissed, nor is there any when bedtime comes. There is only another scolding. Then Coco cries again and gets angry and tries to vent his baby spite on his teacher. Next morning, however, the storm has passed and Coco is the most obedient and willing of the lot for he has not forgotten the loss of the bread.

There are times when Coco has been bad in school and has been punished that he goes home in a bad humor. He trumpets and stamps around and bothers his mother, Colonna, charging the big elephant in the side with his head and behaving like a spoiled child. Colonna stands it for a time in patience, but at last will put up with no more tantrums. Then she backs the naughty baby into a corner and whips it with her trunk. "Thwack, thwack," the blows fall across the baby's body, not on the head or on the shoulders, but on that part of which the maternal slipper is applied in the case of human babies. The baby shakes its head at first in stubborn mood and trumpets in defiance, but the heavy trunk continues to fall and at last the little one crouches on his knees on the floor and calls plaintively for mercy. Colonna gives him a couple more strokes for good measure and the punishment is ended. This lesson has a wholesome effect for behavior in school next day, for a whipping at home has followed discipline at the hands of the teacher.

Another of the tricks taught early to baby elephants is prouetting. One is turned around by the strength of the tutors until it has learned to do the dance itself. Then he lesson is given to the others by example and pressure. After a time they have learned to dance together and a good start has been made in their training.

The babies have been trained to go through a war scene. Three of them fire a cannon and one falls down, apparently badly wounded. Then Capt. Mooney, who is in command of the army, also is shot and drops to the ground, his head falling by his side. One of the little elephants picks up and waves a white flag, another lowers the fallen officer's body with the stars and stripes, and with the aid of a third, carries him from the field, while a fourth brings up the rear with the sword. The eighth of the eight that are part in this one have been trained to do it and they are set their parts memorized. The teachers, however, are not lazy. They will take up an old trick after a vacation, but it is hard to get them to do it when they are being taught from day to day, they may be and will go through to the end, even if the trainer is not around. Horses, on the contrary, will stop performing as soon as the trainer's back is turned.

During the current circus season, the baby elephants will have little time for school, but as soon as they go back to Bridgeport they will have to take up the course again and put in full time. Meantime, they will not suffer for lagnappe; for if they are good in the circus ring they will get it just the same as they do in the winter school.

The menagerie will be found a most interesting feature of the big show when it exhibits in Newark next Thursday, May 26.

CONSUMPTION

Mainly Caused by Chronic Colds and Hanging-on Coughs.

Mr. Frank D. Hall, our well known druggist has given a good deal of time to the study of consumption, and finds that comparatively few cases are hereditary.

Mostly all are caused by neglected coughs and colds which gradually weaken the whole pulmonary system, and before people realize it there is a diseased spot in one lung, smutting blood soon follows and eventually a collapse.

Such an unnecessary end, such a pity, for all could have been so different. We know of hundreds of cases where our wonderful cod liver oil preparation, Vinol, has saved a young and valuable life, which without it would have been sacrificed. We have letters from people who were given up to die, and who positively state that Vinol, and Vinol alone, saved their lives when all else had failed to help them.

Vinol is able to cure hanging-on colds and stubborn coughs, because it is the most perfect preparation of cod liver oil ever compounded; it contains no oil or grease to upset the delicate stomach, yet it does contain every one of the fifty odd medicinal curative elements actually taken from fresh cod livers, and we freely and publicly state that we will supply all the Vinol we think necessary to cure any case of chronic coughs, hanging-on colds or weak and debilitated conditions of Newark people, and pay for the medicine ourselves if it fails to give satisfactory results.

How can we express our faith in Vinol more emphatically? Frank D. Hall, Druggist.

RURAL ROUTE NO. 9.

The little three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Mason of Loudon Hollow, died on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, after a short illness, of measles. The funeral took place from the home on Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock. A little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mason is very low with the same disease.

R. J. Ford is suffering with an attack of kidney trouble.

The Citizens' Telephone company is building a farmers' line on the east line of Rural Route No. 9, in Madison township. The company will extend the line to or near the old Mary Ann furnace if enough patronage is guaranteed.

The extension of McKinley avenue is being graded east to the O'Farman road. This will greatly benefit the people of Rural Route No. 9, also the mail carrier, as he has been frequently compelled to wait from ten to twenty minutes on switching being done in the railroad yards.

Samuel Rector and wife and daughter, Burnies had a narrow escape from death on Wednesday. They were driving along the road when their buggy was struck by an interurban car on the Zanesville line, mashing the hind wheels down but fortunately doing no other damage.

All the healing balsamic virtues of the Norway pine are concentrated in the Norway Norway Pine Syrup, nature's own remedy for coughs and colds.

Where the Finger Pointed

(Original.)

Sir Hugh Verne sat in the home of his forefathers looking about him hopelessly. On the morrow the place was to be sold to pay debts that had been accumulating for a century. The present owner was to become of age on the very day of the sale. To add to his distress he loved a younger daughter of Lord Montague, a neighboring landowner.

Verne was sitting in a room that had been occupied ever since the house was built three centuries before for a library. The shelves were filled with books made when the printing press was a novelty. On one side of a large bay window stood a revolving geographical globe, opposite it a statue of a Sir Hugh Verne who had been dead 150 years. He had been miserly, and under his regime the estate had increased in value, but at his death the funds he was supposed to have accumulated did not appear. He had during his later days erected the statue of himself in his library, directing that no other monument to his memory be placed. The forefinger of the right hand of the statue pointed directly to the globe. One of his descendants, thinking that the finger indicated a place where some of his missing wealth was hidden, had had the globe taken apart, but finding nothing of value, it had been restored. The present Sir Hugh's father, Sir Thomas Verne, had opened the wall back of the globe at a point in line with the finger, but he, too, had been disappointed. He had found the estate impoverished by his predecessor and had brooded over the misfortune he saw surely coming for his son. From the son's boyhood he had heard his father debating as to the meaning of the pointing finger and believed he had some reason for surmising that it referred to hidden money.

Sir Hugh sat gloomily looking at the statue, thinking of the family tradition. It was an hour before noon, and the day was the 21st of September. Neither the hour nor the date made any impression on the young baron, except that the date was present in his mind as the day previous to the sale. Nevertheless an idea occurred to him, an idea which came down through thousands of years. He had read that when the great pyramid of Cheops was built to entomb a king an inclined passage was left, through which a star at the vernal equinox would shine in upon the mummy. Sir Hugh noticed that the sun was shining in through the bay window upon the statue. The shadow of the index finger lay upon the wall midway between the ceiling and the floor. The young man noticed the shadow and kept his eye upon it as it slowly sank toward the floor, moving at the same time toward the east. Why the pyramid of Cheops entered his head and why he made a mental connection between it and the shadow he could not tell. He afterward tried to trace the steps leading him to his idea, but failed. Nevertheless it came to him that if it was not now the vernal it was the autumnal equinox. Then, suddenly, the bell on the town clock struck the hour of noon.

His idea had been born. Rising, he seized an antique dagger hanging from a mantel and backed a cross upon the point covered by the shadow of the index finger.

That afternoon he darkened the room, locked the doors, and with a set of mason's tools, began to make a hole in the wall where he had carved the cross. The plaster was soon scraped away, and behind it was a stone differing from its neighbors in its shape, which was an octagon. On the stone from each of the right angles had been cut cross lines, and their intersection lay exactly at the spot where the shadow point had lain that day at noon. The stone was imbedded in an inch of mortar, which was easily chipped away and the stone removed, leaving an orifice into which the baron could hold a candle and see what lay beyond. What he did see was a vault heaped with gold sovereigns. On the back of the stone was cut in rude letters—wordless by the man who had deposited it there—these words:

No fool shall inherit this savings. If any of my descendants use the wall to take this gold he will lose the good sense to use it to the advantage of the estate.

Wondering how this vault could have remained so long unknown, the baron examined its surroundings and found that it had been a space left unused by the architect who had built the house.

That evening a mason was called in to enlarge the orifice, and by midnight the baron began to count his newly found treasure, separating the sovereigns into heaps of 1,000 each, making exactly fifty heaps, without a sovereign over or short. The next morning the sun was not high in the sky before his solitaires had paid off the incumbrances on the estate, and there was no sale. Indeed, instead of parting with the home of his ancestors, who his solitaires were paying off the debts. Sir Hugh was superintending a corps of assistants he had called in to make hurried preparations for the celebration of his coming of age. The 21st being gently were astonished at seeing messengers dash up to their portals to leave invitations from Sir Hugh Verne for a grand ball in the evening.

No more brilliant assembly had occurred in the neighborhood in years. The ball was much better than it was given out that his friends were expected to congratulate him not only on coming to age, but into an unexpected fortune. But where the fortune came from he told to but one person: the early daughter who subsequently became his wife.

THE A. A. Griggs COMPANY

STRUCK BY CAR

B. F. Fell Formerly Marshal at Zanesville Was Nearly Killed at Dillon's Falls While Asleep and Sitting on a Tie--Motorman Not to Blame for Accident.

Zanesville, O., May 23.—While sitting on the interurban railway tracks near Dillon, at the end of a big curve, Benjamin F. Fell, the well-known ex-councilman, of Zanesville, was struck Sunday, and very seriously injured. The fifth and sixth ribs on the right side were broken, and pierced the lung cavity, making a jagged wound. He also received a deep gash in the head, concussion of the brain resulting from this injury. The physicians say the injuries may be fatal.

Mr. Fell was brought to this city on the interurban car, and carried him to his home at 743 Center street.

Remaining unconscious for over an hour after the accident, Mr. Fell, upon the slightest signs of the approach of consciousness, was placed under the influence of anaesthetics to relieve him from the terrible pain.

Went on taking a little excursion into the country on the interurban line, Mr. Fell started from home and boarded an interurban car at the street car waiting room. He alighted from the car at Dillon Falls, intending to take a later car back to the city.

When near the time for the arrival of the car, Mr. Fell strolled down to the track, and becoming tired seated himself on the rail. At this point there is a big curve in the track and the conductor of the car did not see him until almost up on the body.

The whistle blew and all possible efforts to stop the car were made, but it was running at a good rate of speed and this could not be accomplished before Mr. Fell was struck.

The unfortunate man was struck by the fender of the big motor and after this, the step of the car No. 45 struck him in the side, fracturing the ribs, and inflicting the gash in the head. Mr. Fell is about 40 years old, and weighs 250 pounds, and the terrible force of the concussion of him and car, broke the step off the car.

After proceeding for a short distance from the scene of the accident, the car was stopped and run back, when Mr. Fell was picked up by passengers and placed on the car, which conveyed him to the city.

It is believed that Mr. Fell sustained a sun stroke, as the motorman of the car states that Mr. Fell looked up with a dazed expression just before he was struck.

Having served in the city council just before the new code went into effect, Mr. Fell became well-known throughout the city. He has been a molder at the Union Machine shops for years, and when that company was under a co-operative basis, he was one of the principal stockholders. He was marshal of Zanesville for about 12 years, before the town was big enough to have a chief of police and patrolmen.

Mr. Fell's wife is ill, and the shock of the affair will, it is thought, prove serious.

The motorman of the car, which struck Mr. Fell, was Hugh Catman of Newark, the oldest and one of the most careful men in the employ of the company. He stated that the unfortunate man was sitting on the end of a tie and as the car approached he appeared to be asleep. The motorman supposed, of course, he would get out of the way when he blew the whistle repeatedly, but when he saw Mr. Fell still sitting there he then made every effort to stop the car, which was coming down an incline, but the step struck the man on the shoulder.

Mr. Catman nor Conductor Hahn are in any way to blame for the accident.

COAL OIL

DRUNK BY ZANESVILLE BABY CAUSED DEATH

Child Suffered Intensely and Died an Hour After it Had Been Baptized.

Zanesville, O., May 23.—Not thinking of the danger lurking in a little tin cup containing a half pint of coal oil, Mrs. J. W. Murphy, of Center street, turned around to get a match to light a lamp Saturday evening but in the second in which her back was turned, her little son, Ben, aged 19 months, an only child, had drunk the deadly contents, and after lingering in agony for 22 hours died.

About 5:30 o'clock Saturday evening, Mrs. Murphy began to prepare dinner. There is no gas in the house and the old-fashioned lamp and coal fire are used.

Pouring about a pint of coal oil from the can into a tin cup, Mrs. Murphy made preparations to get things in readiness for supper. She poured half of the oil into the lamp, and intended to use the rest in building the fire.

After drinking the cup's contents the child falling to the floor in convulsions writhed in agony. His mother was horrified when she learned what her only babe had done, the silent tale of the empty tin cup being mute evidence of the tragedy.

Inflammation of the stomach resulted, causing the baby untold agony.

When it was seen that the baby could not be saved, it was decided to baptize the infant. Rev. E. D. Evans, pastor of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, was called and at a death-bed scene, he administered the rites of the church, the parents and several friends standing around the little bed, with tears rolling down their cheeks at the thought that such a young life must be sacrificed.

It was only an hour after the baptism that the spark of life went out.

NATURE SPARES

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

What a fortunate provision of nature it is, that deprives the rose of mental suffering; for how poignant would be its grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory, that a canker fed at its heart, and that its beauty and fragrance were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable store-house of pleasing rewards, for those who seek her aid. In the years gone by falling hair and grayness have cast a gloom over the lives of thousands of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause of hair destruction is now known to be a germ or parasite that burrows into the hair follicles. Newbro's Herpicide absolutely destroys this germ, thus permitting the hair to grow as nature intended. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.
